Happy Mother's Day

In America, the second Sunday in May is the day we set aside to honor Mother. One of the most intricate and important duties one can accept is to steer, protect and nurture another's life.

Mothers hardly ever get the credit they deserve in their day-in-day-out dedication to the generations of young people now and forever. They, our Mothers, influence the future of the entire earth; they have for years past and will continue, far into the future.

Thank you to all of the Mothers everywhere for a life's tireless commitment, not always recognized for its true worth.

STATEMENT FROM MAYOR EMANUEL ON PHIL HUMBER'S PERFECT GAME

Congratulations to Phil Humber of the Chicago White Sox for pitching only the 20th regular season perfect game in the history of Major League Baseball. It's an amazing accomplishment, even more so when you consider the injuries and setbacks early in his career and the fact that this was the first time that he tossed a complete game.

Phil Humber now has a place in baseball history and a permanent spot in the hearts of all Chicago baseball fans.

McAuliffe Secures Grants for Capital Improvements

State Representative Michael McAuliffe (R-Chicago) was able to secure capital grants for some of the communities in his district to be used for essential projects.

Three $100,000 grants were awarded to the village of Niles, village of Norridge and Ridgewood High School District 234.

The village of Niles will use this money to improve pedestrian safety and accessibility by removing and replacing sidewalks, curbs and gutters that are deteriorating and hazardous to the public.

ARMED FORCES DAY

Armed Forces Day honors all branches of the armed forces of the United States. It is celebrated on the third Saturday of May with military exercises on land, at sea, and in the air. Military installations are usually open to the public on Armed Forces Day. President Harry S. Truman proclaimed Armed Forces Day, and it was first celebrated in May, 1950. It replaced three separate celebrations for the Air Force, Army, and Navy. James V. Forrestal, the first secretary of defense, helped unite the armed services under the Department of Defense after World War II ended in 1945. (Taken from World Book, 1999 Edition)

We honor all of our men and women of the military everyday of the year for their selfless patriotism and service to all of us.

They keep us safe and watch over us not only at home but in the far corners of the earth where they are assigned. We can never express deeply enough our unwavering support and pride in these exceptional people, past, present and future.

Skokie Receives Tree City USA Recognition

The Village of Skokie is honored with the Tree City USA Designation award for its 2011 efforts in tree advocacy. The Village has received the Tree City USA award for 26 consecutive years.

The award recognizes Skokie for managing local forest resources to enhance citizen safety and welfare. Tree City USA recognizes municipal programs that promote tree planting and care programs in urban areas. Recognition is also given for efforts against invasive species such as the Emerald Ash Borer.

The Village of Skokie has met the four required standards to become a Tree City USA Community. All Tree City USA communities must have a tree board or department, a tree-care ordinance, a community forestry program with annual expenditures of at least $2 per capita and an Arbor Day observance and proclamation.

This year's Arbor Day ceremony is Friday, April 27, 2012, 10 a.m. at Oakton Park, 4701 Oakton Street. The ceremony is hosted by the Village of Skokie, the Skokie Beautification and Improvement Commission and the Skokie Park District. All are welcome to attend this family friendly event.

The Village of Skokie Forestry Division also was recently awarded an Emerald Ash Borer (EAB) Grant for Urban Restoration in the amount of $16,100. The source of the funding is the Urban and Community Forestry Program of the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative and it is managed by the Metropolitan Mayors Caucus. The Village will use the money to replace trees removed due to the Emerald ash borer.

Skokie foresters remind residents not to transport firewood from home to campgrounds or vacation homes this summer. Purchasing firewood locally helps reduce the spread of the Emerald ash borer and other pests. For more information, please visit <http://www.emeraldashborer.info>.

For more information on any of the above programs, please call the Forestry Division at 847/933-8427.

Correspondence Regarding Electrical Aggregation to be Mailed Week of April 23

Residents and Small Businesses to save up to 41% off the current ComEd electricity rate

Official correspondence from the Village of Skokie regarding electricity aggregation will be mailed during the week of April 23 to all eligible residential and small business customers via regular postal service. Residents will not receive a telephone call from the Village of Skokie or from its electrical provider mc<sup>2</sup>.

This correspondence will explain the program and provide information for customers. Once the correspondence is received, customers will have 21 days to determine if they want to "opt-out" of the program. Under this "opt-out" program, all residential and small business customers (those whose annual usage is 15,000 kWh or less) will be switched automatically to mc<sup>2</sup>, unless the customer affirmatively opts-out of the program and wishes to remain with ComEd.

Residents and small businesses that have already switched to an alternative provider will be able to "opt-in" to the municipal aggregation program; those residents and businesses should contact mc<sup>2</sup> at 888/808-7731 or NorthShore@MC2energyservices.com for more information about registration.

This week, Skokie Mayor George Van Dusen announced a new rate for electricity that will yield 41% savings off the current Commonwealth Edison residential electricity rate, and save residential customers hundreds of dollars annually. This is one of the largest aggregation groups under a single form agreement in Illinois.

City of Chicago Street Sweeping Season Began April 2nd

Residents asked to be mindful about temporary parking restrictions

The Chicago Department of Streets and Sanitation (DSS) announces citywide street sweeping begins today and will run through October 31, 2012. DSS' fleet of street sweepers help to keep streets clean for motorists, and prevent dirt and debris from entering the sewer system—ultimately allowing for better drainage during a rain storm.

"Keeping the streets clean is critical for allowing safe travel for motorists and for sustaining effective storm water management in our sewer system," said Commissioner Thomas G. Byrne, Chicago Department of Streets and Sanitation. "We are asking residents to support our street cleaning efforts by obeying any posted parking regulations."

Residents are asked to be mindful of all temporary and permanent street sweeping parking restriction signage. To ensure curb-to-curb street cleaning, temporary parking restrictions are posted the day before work is scheduled to begin on any street. Some arterial streets have permanent signage that specifies a once-per-week period when parking is prohibited for street sweeping.

Residents interested in the 2012 street sweeping schedule for their community, or those who would like to request street sweeping services, can visit www.city-of-chicago.org/dss or call 311.

In 2011, DSS street sweeping crews cleaned approximately 242,000 miles of Chicago's streets.

Topinka Speaks at Hiring Our Heroes Job Fair

Illinois State Comptroller Judy Baar Topinka along with other dignitaries recently spoke at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Hiring Our Heroes Job Fair at the Hilton & Towers Hotel in Chicago. "I commend the U.S. Chamber of Commerce who launched this event in March of 2011, Hiring Our Heroes, a nationwide initiative to help veterans and military spouses find meaningful employment. Working with their network of 1600 state and local chambers and other strategic partners from the public, private, and non-profit sectors, their goal is to create a movement across America in hundreds of local communities where veterans and military families return every day," said Topinka.

CDOT TO INSTALL NEW ENERGY-EFFICIENT LIGHTS ON MORE THAN 200 BLOCKS OF RESIDENTIAL STREETS

Infrastructure Upgrades are Part of Building a New Chicago Program

Chicago Department of Transportation (CDOT) crews will install more than 1,200 new energy-efficient streetlights along more than 200 blocks residential streets in neighborhoods across Chicago in 2012.

CDOT's residential lighting program is part of Building a New Chicago, a comprehensive $7.3 billion infrastructure renewal program created by Mayor Rahm Emanuel that will completely overhaul the City's infrastructure in the next three years.

"Critical infrastructure upgrades such as new street lighting help to secure and strengthen our neighborhoods while encouraging private investment and economic development in our communities," said Mayor Rahm Emanuel.

It costs approximately $66,000 to retrofit each residential block with new light poles and lights. The City's residential lighting program is funded through a number of sources, including General Obligation Bonds and Tax Increment Financing (TIF).

CDOT is currently installing poles and lights that use 33 percent less energy than traditional street lights. The poles are 18 feet high, and the lights illuminate approximately 50 feet of streetscape.

Aaron Maier, a Teaching Artist for Chicago Public Schools and the Community Television Network Workshop, is primarily a digital filmmaker, with work that has been discussed on NPR's Weekend Edition, The Onion AV Club, Huffington Post, and Toronto's National Post. Aaron has completed his latest project with his EIT collective – Doggiewoggiez! Previous Facets Children's Programs filmmaking workshops have granted kids and teens in the Chicago area the opportunity to discover various other aspects of the filmmaking industry. Previous workshops have included a documentary-based "Mock Doc" session that explored the ins and outs of documentary and reality filmmaking, and an intensive film development workshop that walked teens through the process of conceptualizing, writing, shooting, and editing their own works.

Founded in 1975, Facets Multi-Media is a Chicago-based non-profit media arts organization dedicated to making film accessible to all through cinema education, distribution, presentation, and preservation, with an emphasis on the best in classic, world, and independent cinema. ## After School Matters® Now Accepting Applications from Chicago High School Students for Summer 2012 Programs

Approximately 6,000 program opportunities will be available to teens across the city

After School Matters is now accepting applications for its summer program session, which begins June 25. Programs in the arts, communications, science, sports and technology will be offered at more than 100 community organizations, Chicago Public Schools, Chicago Park District and Chicago Public Library locations across the city as well as Downtown at the Gallery 37 Center for the Arts. In total, approximately 6,000 program opportunities will be available to Chicago teens this summer.

After School Matters unique programs offer teens an opportunity to explore and develop their talents, while gaining critical skills for work, college and beyond. A few of the innovative programs being offered include:

Wicked Truth Film Production-tech37 (Alternatives, Inc. in Uptown) -- This program introduces Chicago teens to the theory and technique of digital filmmaking. Teens will work on all aspects of the production process, creating video projects that explore issues in their communities.

Junior Research Scientists-science37 (Columbia College Chicago in the South Loop) -- Teens will gain hands-on, in-laboratory training in molecular biology and alternative energy technologies, developing skills related to cancer biology, alternative energy technologies and computer animation.

Summer Rowing-sports37 (Chicago Training Center at Gage Park) -- Through the sport of competitive rowing, teens will challenge themselves to achieve their athletic and academic potential in a nurturing environment. This program, which culminates in a rowing regatta, motivates teens to become physically fit, build teamwork, self-esteem and leadership skills, while also developing and advancing their educational and life goals.

Beverage Industry Products and Profits-tech37 (Austin Business and Entrepreneurship Academy in Austin) -- Teens in this program will learn about various aspects of the multi-billion dollar local and global non-alcoholic beverage industry, as well as entrepreneurship.

Joffrey Ballet-gallery37 (Joffrey Tower in the Loop) -- Working with The Joffrey Ballet's professional dancers, teens in this program will be introduced to a variety of dance genres that will enhance their technique and life skills.

Radio Arte-words37 (Radio Arte/WRTE-FM in Pilsen) -- During the course of this radio journalism program, teens will produce multimedia pieces, lead a peer workshop and contribute to current WRTE productions.

All After School Matters programs, which run for six-to-eight weeks, are free and open to all Chicago teen residents who are at least 14 years of age, and entering or currently enrolled in high school. Teens can search for programs that interest them, as well as for programs in and around their neighborhood, at www.afterschoolmatters.org. In order to participate, teens must apply online for programs and meet with program instructors to discuss and present their skills and interests.

Founded in 1991 by former Chicago First Lady Maggie Daley, After School Matters provides teens with opportunities to discover their potential and find their path to a meaningful life. This summer, After School Matters will be using the $2 million allocated by the City of Chicago from its planned crackdown on scofflaws to expand the number of program opportunities offered by 50 percent.

"We are grateful to the City of Chicago for their continued support of After School Matters and look forward to expanding the number of teens we can serve in our meaningful, safe and structured programs this summer," said Raymond Orozco, chief executive officer of After School Matters. "Developing programs that are engaging and accessible inspires us as we work toward our vision to provide Chicago teens with opportunities to discover their potential and find their path to a meaningful life."

Multiple independent studies and recent data have confirmed that teens who participate in After School Matters apprenticeship programs have fewer course failures, better attendance and higher high school graduation rates. In fact, After School Matters teens who participate for three or more program cycles were found to enroll in college at an 18 percent higher rate and attend nearly 12 more days of high school annually than their CPS peers.

For more information about After School Matters and to apply for summer programs, visit www.afterschoolmatters.org. Teens should apply early, as program opportunities fill up quickly! Follow the organization on Twitter @afterschoolmatters and on Facebook at facebook.com/afterschoolmatters.

The New Generation of Urhausens Carry On Family's 90+ Year Tradition

Nick and Gerard Urhausen are of the newest generation of this well-known family that have been the providers of garden plants and flowers to the Chicagoland area since 1922.

When Gerard & Nick's grandfather and his brother started their life's work decades ago, the Lincolnwood property they continue to occupy was pure prairie land with no trees and only a scattering of houses - most of them summer residences. What is now Lincolnwood was all "Country." Vegetables were the mainstay of the greenhouse back then, with all the members of the Urhausen clan chipping in to help during this seasonally busy business. In fact, even today, this is still a total commitment by the entire family. "It seems like you can never work hard enough," Nick and Gerard comment. "Even in the off-season we're making ready for the next year. Because we grow everything ourselves, we offer more colors and varieties including hard to find blooms like zinnias and cosmos. We are really growers more than we are your typical plant and flower providers. As a result of that we are not merchants or marketeers. Our experience and training is as greenhouse growers."

For years now, people from far and wide have been making the "outing or excursion" as it was in the early days, to only a quick trip on any of the major roadways today to feast on the "conservatory" atmosphere of Urhausen's Greenhouse, where they can stroll among the living world of beauty the Urhausens provide. And then to be able to take some of that beauty home with them and enjoy their choices for months afterwards is the ultimate treat.

Gerard and Nick add, "We appreciate all of our customers and the support they have given us through the years and always try to make their experience with us an enjoyable one. Our patrons love to be able to shop in a place where their future plants are actually growing."

We at Our Village thank the Urhausen family for all the service and beauty they have shared with us through these many years and are pleased to announce they will be doing an article for us on a regular basis in which they will continue to share their expertise with us.

Urhausen Greenhouses is located at 6973 N. East Prairie Road in Lincolnwood. Their phone number 847-675-1573. www.urhausengreenhouses.com

NILES WEST PRESENTS BROADWAY CLASSIC "CHICAGO" ON

The Niles West Fine Arts Department will present the modern Broadway classic "Chicago" on May 3 through 5 in the Robert L. Johnson Auditorium at 5701 Oakton, Skokie. ## "A Theater Review"

"Freud's Last Session"

Mercury Theatre

3745 North Southport Ave., Chicago, Illinois

Reviewed by Richard A. Eisenhardt

"Freud's Last Session" has been running off-Broadway for two years.

I wonder how many theatergoers know who C. S. Lewis is but I'm sure the name of Sigmund Freud will be and is remembered by many. The Provisions Theatre has done shows featuring the character C. S. Lewis but "Freud's Last Session" features these two real life individuals — one who is an enthusiastic Christian believer and Freud, a hard-core atheist.

"Last Session" playwright is Mark St. Germain. It is a very intellectual drama that is being directed by Tyler Marchant and features the two New York actors who are reprising their roles for the Chicago production. The show is still running in New York and their roles have been taken over by other actors.

This show runs seventy-five minutes without intermission. Martin Rayner is brilliant as Doctor Sigmund Freud and Mark H. Dold as C. S. Lewis gives a performance in this two-character play that you'll come out remembering if you love good drama.

Freud has invited Lewis to his home in London as the two men clash on such topics as God, Love, Sex and the meaning of Life.

When Lewis arrives at first he thinks Freud is going to tear him apart for what he has to say in his book only to discover that Freud has never read it.

While Rayner as Freud has some of the best lines Dold, as Lewis, eagerly explains his views that lead to Freud voicing his own convictions with the same vigor.

The two characters will assert their theories, concede some points and tell jokes.

We find that the story is set three weeks before his death of oral cancer in 1939 at the age of 83. You will see the sight of some stage blood.

The two meet the day England entered World War II. Is it a fictional meeting or did they meet?

St. Germain wrote this after reading Dr. Armand M. Nicoli, Jr.'s, book "The Question of God." Nicoli was a professor of psychology at Harvard University.

While Lewis fights back he does agree with the Atheist about one thing: "The stupidity of some church leaders that many find them easy targets." Judge for yourself. "Freud's Last Session" runs through June 3rd. For theatre dates, performance times and reservations call 773-325-1700. Tickets are $35-$55.

EXIT EDEN BY DOUG FOGELSON OPENS MAY 4 AT THE CITY GALLERY AT THE HISTORIC WATER TOWER

First Non-Chicago Focused Show to be Exhibited in City Gallery,

"Exit Eden" Reflects on Earth's Changing Environment Through Photography by Chicago Artist

A new exhibition, Exit Eden, at the City Gallery at the Historic Water Tower, 806 N. Michigan Avenue, casts light on the Earth's shifting environments through photography by Chicago artist Doug Fogelson. Presented by the Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events, the exhibition opens Friday, May 4 with a free public reception from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Exit Eden will be on display through September 23, 2012. The City Gallery is open Mondays – Saturdays 10 a.m.-6:30 p.m. and Sundays 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Admission is free.

Exit Eden by Doug Fogelson considers the transformative effect climate change is having on our natural environment through the abstraction of landscape photography. In removing layers of both imagery and color from his original transparency film, Fogelson creates a dialog between destructiveness and beauty that points to a consideration of humanity within the elements. Exit Eden is Fogelson's way of coming to terms with conflicted views about an earthly paradise and the extinction or loss of precious resources.

A Chicago native, Doug Fogelson studied at The School of the Art Institute of Chicago and Columbia College College. His work is displayed in notable public and private collections and with esteemed galleries. Most of Fogelson's work is represented via photographic means and materials, and the photographic process itself is integral to his conceptualizations. His work addresses the physical implications of materials and a questioning of human interactions within shifting boundaries and borders.

Since 1999 the City Gallery has presented solely Chicago-themed exhibits. Beginning with Exit Eden, the exhibition space expands its focus to highlight Chicago's artists and photographers, showcasing the diversity of quality work and breadth of vision in the city's creative community.

"CUBS VS. SOX: A REAL RIVALRY" WILL BE THE MAY 16 TIMELY TALK AT NORWOOD CROSSING

The argument prevails each year: Which is the better team—the Chicago Cubs or the Chicago White Sox? The next best thing to a subway world series is the interleague weekend series between the two teams. Why has this rivalry become a classic? Find out by attending the Timely Talk, at 2:00 p.m., on May 16, at Norwood Crossing, 6016-20 N. Nina Ave. in Chicago. The presentation will take place two days before the Cubs and White Sox meet for the first time during the 2012 season at Wrigley Field.

George Castle, local author, baseball authority and radio talk show host, will discuss how the classic has become the closest event to a playoff atmosphere, why the classic has led to argument resolution based on on-field performance rather than fantasy and projection, and will give insight into the various players who have played in the event over the past 15 years.

A question and answer session, refreshments and a raffle will follow the talk. For more information or to RSVP, please call (773) 577-5323.

All KYN hosts will receive a host 'kit' that includes invitations, name tags, conversation starters and a coupon redeemable for a free coffee cake (Kosher or traditional) to serve at their coffee. # How Will Your Assets Pass Upon Your Death? Get to Know Your C.O.P.

Chester M. Przybylo

Have you ever wondered what happens to a person's assets when they pass away? Just about everyone knows about a Will, and the fact that it includes instructions on how to dispose of a decedent's assets upon his or her death. But did you know there are other ways of transferring assets to your loved ones upon your death? You can easily remember three methods by recognizing the acronym C.O.P. – Contract, Operation of Law, and Probate.

“C” - Contract

The first method of transferring assets upon the owner's death is through the use of various contracts. This is an arrangement to have money and assets transferred upon the asset owner's death to the people previously designated by the asset owner. This form of transferring assets is very common, and includes the following arrangements:

- Trusts;
- Individual Retirement Accounts;
- Life Insurance Policies;
- Partnerships;
- Buy-Sell Agreements.

One benefit to using contractual arrangements for transferring assets is that the right of the beneficiary to receive the assets in question exists at the moment of the owner's death. When executed properly, (barring any extraordinary complications) the transfer can occur rapidly with minimal effort on the part of the beneficiaries. Additionally, the use of a contractual arrangement, such as a Trust, allows you the peace of mind of knowing that, regardless of an incapacitating illness later in the owner's life, his or her wishes will be followed upon the owner's death.

The key to using contracts to swiftly transfer assets upon the owner's death is to plan far enough in advance to fully reap its benefits. This is especially true of contractual arrangements such as Life Insurance Policies and Annuities, which can become financially infeasible, or even completely unattainable, the older the applicant becomes. Additionally, certain types of contractual arrangements come under close scrutiny if they occur near to the asset owner's death.

“O” - Operation of Law

A second method of transferring assets upon the asset owner's death is by operation of law. Generally, this technique is applicable to situations where the asset owner holds title to an asset with another person. Forms of holding assets include:

- Joint Tenancy with Rights of Survivorship
- Tenancy by the Entirety
- Community Property with Rights of Survivorship
- Life Estates

The “survivorship” aspect of this type of asset ownership transfers full ownership immediately upon the co-owner's (or life tenant's) death to the remaining owner(s) (or remainder interest holder).

This technique is different from the contract method of asset transfer, as the beneficiary under a contract generally does not have an ownership interest in the asset in question until the owner's death. Conversely, under a transfer by operation of law, the recipient becomes a co-owner of the asset upon taking title to the assets.

“P” – Probate

A third way in which assets are transferred upon the asset owner's death is through Probate. This is the process through which title is changed from the decedent's name into the new owner's name. Probate, (depending upon the state in which the asset owner resides and where property is located) can be an expensive and time-consuming process. Additionally, probate is a public court proceeding, thereby allowing anyone to know your personal details and financial holdings.

Probate is mandated if you die without a Will. The court must determine who is to receive your assets as prescribed by state law. However, what many people do not realize is that Probate is also required if you die with a Will. “Probate” means “to prove a Will.” Nevertheless, if you have disposed of your assets through an alternate means of transfer as discussed above, (“Contract” and “Operation of Law”), the process can be expedited in many states.

The Decision is Yours

The bottom line is that you do have a choice – you can dictate how your assets are transferred upon your death. Knowing this fact gives you an advantage over many people, but you must use that knowledge to benefit yourself and your family. Consult with a qualified attorney specializing in estate planning to discuss which methods are appropriate for your particular circumstances.

Help Mom Save $4,000 a Year

By Andrew Salata, Social Security Administration

Given the current economic climate, buying a nice gift for Mother's Day may be more difficult than in years past. But people across the nation are discovering that the best gifts are often free.

This Mother's Day, you can show Mom how to save an estimated $4,000 a year on her Medicare prescription drug costs. Here's how.

If your mother is covered by Medicare and has limited income and resources, she may be eligible for Extra Help — available through Social Security — to pay part of her monthly premiums, annual deductibles, and prescription co-payments. The Extra Help is estimated to be worth about $4,000 per year.

To figure out whether your mother is eligible, Social Security needs to know her income and the value of her savings, investments and real estate (other than the home she lives in). To qualify for the extra help, she must be receiving Medicare and have:

- Income limited to $16,335 for an individual or $22,065 for a married couple living together. Even if her annual income is higher, she still may be able to get some help with monthly premiums, annual deductibles, and prescription co-payments. Some examples where income may be higher include if she and, if married, her husband:
  - Support other family members who live with them;
  - Have earnings from work; or
  - Live in Alaska or Hawaii.
- Resources limited to $13,070 for an individual or $26,120 for a married couple living together. Resources include such things as bank accounts, stocks, and bonds. We do not count her house or car as resources.

Social Security has an easy-to-use online application that you can help complete for your mom. You can find it at www.socialsecurity.gov/prescriptionhelp. To apply by phone or have an application mailed to you, call Social Security at 1-800-772-1213 (TTY 1-800-325-0778) and ask for the Application for Help with Medicare Prescription Drug Plan Costs (SSA-1020). Or go to the nearest Social Security office.

To learn more about the Medicare prescription drug plans and special enrollment periods, visit www.medicare.gov or call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227; TTY 1-877-486-2048).

Mom will be grateful when you give her a useful gift this year: help her save an estimated $4,000 a year on Medicare prescription drugs. It won't cost you anything more than a little bit of quality time with her — something you and Mom both want anyway. These rules apply to Dad as well, so plan ahead for your Father's Day gift too.

Individuals who want to make a difference in the fight against cancer this spring can join the thousands of walkers, skaters and bicyclists who support the American Cancer Society's lifesaving mission of creating a world with less cancer and more birthdays by participating in the 41st annual Walk and Roll Chicago.

Walk and Roll is a family-friendly event and one of the Society's largest annual fundraisers in Illinois where teams made up of friends, families and co-workers unite to honor or remember loved ones that have battled cancer.

This year, the Society hopes to attract more than 10,000 participants and raise $1 million statewide to help people stay well and get well, to fund and find new cures, and to rally people to fight back.

The Society is also honored to announce that Olympian Jackie Joyner Kersee, ranked among the all-time greatest athletes in the women's heptathlon as well as in the women's long jump will be a Key Note speaker for Walk & Roll Chicago.

"All of us have been affected by cancer in some way and Walk & Roll is an uplifting and meaningful way for the community to come together and show our support against this disease that has affected so many people we know," said Jamie Boothroyd, 2012 Walk and Roll Chicago event chair. "Every dollar raised at this event goes toward fighting every form of cancer and empowers the Society to offer free resources and services to cancer patients and their families every step of the way."

Walk & Roll participants raise funds prior to the event, often to commemorate friends and family who have lost their lives to cancer or honor those who currently struggle with the disease. Participants then take part in a 5-mile walk, 10-mile skate, or 15-mile bike ride.

There is a $15 registration fee for all participants ages 18 and older. Participants are encouraged to raise $100 to receive a free event t-shirt. Most participants aim for a goal of $250 or more.
