To the men and women who died for our freedom:

We Thank You

Memorial Day never will be a day of celebration. There are other days set aside for parties.

We all have our ways of remembering. Some go to church services, visit graveside services, attend Memorial Day get togethers and some just take time to think alone.

Let's not forget those who may not understand the true significance of this day; the young. They should be taught the true significance of this day. These young people are the future of our American society.

This Memorial Day, also remember our local heroes who gave their lives for our Freedom, and have a safe Memorial Day Weekend.

AMERICAN LEGION EDISON PARK POST #541 Observes Memorial Day

Berrios Unveils Cook County Homeowner Plan Debacle in Evanston Shows True Leadership is Needed

Cook County Assessor candidate Joseph Berrios unveiled a four-point plan for homeowners on his newly launched website www.electjoerberrios.com. The Berrios Plan will generate more money for Cook County, provide homeowners with fair assessments at market value, add new technology to make assessments more accurate, and improve customer service. It will also call for a blue-ribbon committee to reconvene so that it can review an existing ordinance that is causing homeowners undue hardships.

One way Berrios plans to improve the Assessor’s office is by working hand-in-hand with township assessors. It was reported late Tuesday that in Evanston more than 1,500 building permits weren’t reported to Cook County over a three-year period, leaving Evanston officials trying to figure out how much tax revenue was lost as a result.

“This is completely unfair to the rest of the homeowners who have to make up for the remaining share,” Berrios said.

The Evanston Township assessor and the city’s building department share responsibility for getting the permits to the county, officials said.

“Building permits are the main way the Cook County Assessor’s office knows whether it should inspect a property to evaluate whether it has increased in value,” Berrios said. The failure to move forward those permits means the property has been undervalued and that other residential property owners are paying more than their fair share. Most of the under-reported permits happened under the watch of former Evanston Township Assessor, and current Republican candidate for Cook County Assessor, Sharon Eckersall.

Eckersall claimed the township’s permit department wouldn’t turn over permits, but it was her job to make sure that happened, Berrios said.

“Candidate Eckersall can pass the blame around all she wants, but the responsibility ultimately lies at her feet,” Berrios said.

The Berrios plan announced on Thursday will also:

Thoroughly examine the ‘Claypool 10/25 Ordinance’

It was promised by the current Assessor that this ordinance would bring transparency and simplicity to the property tax system. Instead, it has resulted in an unfair and confusing methodology that has caused undue hardship on homeowners. Berrios will ensure that the ordinance is studied thoroughly by a blue-ribbon panel to assess viability and determine necessary changes. This study will include a “consequences” section so that the Cook County Board of Commissioners understands the potential effect of the ordinance and any revisions.

Use new technology to make land assessments more accurate

Cook County is losing millions upon millions of dollars because some properties are assessed as vacant land, yet there are homes being built on some of these properties. Through the use of a new computerized system, we will be able to review every parcel using aerial photographs. These pictures could be compared to assessment records and used to verify vacant land parcels. As Assessor, Berrios will also improve human communication between my office and township assessors, as well as the City of Chicago, to make sure that building permits are submitted to my office in a timely fashion. This will help ensure that assessments are accurate and filed promptly.

Fairly assess properties at market value

Homeowners are being unfairly hit with tremendous fair market value increases by the current Assessor during the most serious economic decline in decades. Transparency is key to understanding your assessment notice. Berrios will make sure that properties are fairly assessed and that assessment notices are easy to understand.

Improve customer service

This will happen in a variety of manners.

“As a customer, you will be treated with the respect you deserve,” Berrios said. “I will make sure that phones are answered promptly, messages are returned, and that the office is open on several Saturdays each year during tax calendar crunch time.” This will allow working families to visit the office without having to take time off from their jobs.

Berrios says he will also keep suburban offices open so homeowners don’t have to travel downtown.

Finally, Berrios says he will rely on staff more effectively than any previous assessor. Homeowner counselors will be available to help serve you on a one-on-one basis so that you, as a property owner, understand your rights, your benefits, your taxes and your options.”

Berrios has been a commissioner on the Board of Review since 1988. Prior to being elected five times to that post, he served three terms as an Illinois state representative. He is chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party and Committeeman of the 31st Ward. Berrios was the first Hispanic elected chairman of the party, a commissioner to the Board of Review and to the Illinois General Assembly.

Sauganash Community Association Responds to Potential Air and Noise Pollution Issues from O'Hare Airport Runway Expansion

Due to concerns about air and noise pollution, the Sauganash Community Association has formed a committee to coordinate a community response to runway expansion at O'Hare Airport.

The O'Hare Modernization Plan includes adding four runways, extending two runways and closing two runways. One new runway is finished (Pratt) and the remainder will be added in 2011 (Montrose), 2012 (Berteau) and 2013 (Granville). One runway has also been extended (Lawrence) and another will be extended in 2012 (Thorndale).

The extension of the Thorndale runway particularly impacts the Sauganash area. When completed, this runway will be the most used runway for late night and early morning landings as frequently as seven days a week, depending on weather conditions. For about 60 percent of the year all landings from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. will fly over Sauganash.

The Association is concerned about the impact increased air traffic will have on both quality of life and property values. Air traffic related issues include sleep deprivation and restrictions on outdoor activities, coupled with prolonged exposure to pollutants from aircraft engine exhaust. Additionally, property values in affected areas would decrease by up to 10 percent and real estate would take longer to sell.

The committee has drafted recommendations for reducing air traffic and abating noise.

Recommendations include:

Reducing the amount of night landings and takeoffs on the east sides of the Thorndale and Granville runways over Sauganash

Vectoring arrival traffic to spread it out and reduce the frequency over a given area.

Increasing use of the west side of the Thorndale runway, which flies primarily over commercial areas.

Opening the closed diagonal runways for landings from the SE at night.

Requiring use of noise abatement techniques.

Keeping airfreight traffic off the east sides of the Thorndale and Granville runways.

Concerned residents are encouraged to do the following:

Contact Congressman Mike Quigley's office at 773-267-5929 or maryann.levan@mail.house.gov and FAA Regional Administrator Barry Cooper at 847-294-7294 or barry.cooper@faa.gov.

Attend the Sauganash Community Association's open meeting at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 25 at Sauganash Elementary School (6040 N. Kilpatrick).

The Association is also coordinating with a coalition of eight local community associations and will be providing updates about new developments.

Visit sauganash.org for more comprehensive information and contact us at 773-777-3393 or contact@sauganash.org with questions or comments.

The Taste of Lincoln Ave Proudly Presents: The Lill Street Art Festival

Date: July 24-25, 2010

Location: On Lill Street between Lincoln & Halsted | Chicago

We're pleased to announce a NEW feature at this year's Taste of Lincoln Avenue: the first-ever Lill Street Art Fair. We want you to be a part of this exciting art event!

For those not familiar with Taste of Lincoln Avenue, it's one of Chicago's most popular summer street festivals. Held on Lincoln Avenue between Fullerton and Wrightwood, it's celebrating its 27th year this summer on Saturday and Sunday, July 24-25. It attracts more than 300 vendors, has five music stages, and draws a weekend crowd estimated at 70,000.

The new Lill Street Art Fair component will be held on Lill Street between Lincoln Avenue and Halsted. Because the crowds at Taste of Lincoln Avenue are so eclectic, it's less a fine arts showcase and more of a "fun" arts event for a broad visitor demographic of students, families and urban singles.

Because artist space is limited, participation is on a first-come, first-served basis.

Please visit us at www.chicagoevents.com for new events added weekly! Deadline: June 23, 2010 (midnight CST)

Thoughts about Puppies

Ahh don't you just love the smell of spring? We have had a few tease days, but the warm weather is just around the corner. Thank your biscuits cause I am stating to feel cooped up! I have made several new fiends this winter in doggie day care; but I want to feel the sunshine! Soon the sun and all the new puppies will be here!

Spring is the time many of our Humans acquire a new puppy! There is nothing cutier then a stumbling clumsy puppy! Yes, in true adult dog fashion I pretend to dislike them but who can resist puppy breathe? Please don't tell my Human my secret or she'll be bringing home something new!

Over the winter months I meet new pups that where acquired last spring; and umm... some of them have issues. For example, there was the pup that lunged and snapped and me as I walked by! The pup my Human groomer couldn't even touch because it was biting! There was the pup that shook so much I felt the floor vibrate! All of these pups where under a year old!

The problem with all these pups is a lack of socialization. From the minute you bring your new pup home you have to bring it everywhere you possible can! Exposing the pup to as many different people, children, and sounds as possible!

Let's imagine that for the first 6 months of your life you have never left you home and property, other then maybe a walk around the block. You only go in the car to the person that has the sharp object that goes into your back. The only dogs you have ever met are you're Human's sitter's dog or the neighbors. How would you feel when you are dropped off at the groomer for the first time? Obviously, scare to death!

None of the mentioned pups where bad, just scared. They didn't know any better because they were never taught that the groomer or that kid on the bike is not going to hurt them. I am sorry, but the person to blame here is the Human! You cannot wait 6 months for your pup to get its first grooming and expect them not to freak out! You cannot expect them not to bite children when they have not met any!

The point is to get your new puppies out to see the world! Expose them to as much as possible; of course make sure they are vaccinated first! But, that shouldn't stop you from meeting new people! When your new pup is scared of everything the only one to blame is the Human! So, please Humans, you are responsible for that wonderful wiggly puppy; make sure they see the world!

“A Theater Review”

The Drowsy Chaperone
Marriott Theatre, 10 Marriott Drive
Lincolnshire, Illinois

Reviewed by Richard Allen Eisenhardt

When you have a cast that includes Linda Balgord, Tyler Hanes, Paula Scrofano, James Harms, Adam Pelty, Andy Lupp, Tari Kelly, Laura E. Taylor, Melody Betts, David Lively, Gene Weygandt, and Adrian and Alexander Aguilar, who are all Broadway performers or could and should be, how can a theatre miss.

Under the direction and choreography of Marc Robin who is a gold mine in both categories how can it not be a four-star hit?

The show has a book by Bob Martin and Don McKellar with music and lyrics by Lisa Lambert and Greg Morrison with musical direction by Doug Peck.

The remainder of the cast is Cheryl Avery, Mathew Crowle, Erik Floor and Katie Spelman.

Without a doubt the show brings back the memory of Broadway musicals of years ago.

Ms. Balgord plays the Drowsy Chaperone and while she resides in New York, she is from Wisconsin but has done several shows at the Marriott that include Fanny Brice in “Funny Girl” to successful raves and proves you don’t need Streissand’s nose to satisfy most audiences. We only hope she will return from time to time as her performance is right on target with her acting and singing.

I loved her in “Aspects of Love,” “Sunset Boulevard,” and even “The Pirate Queen” which was a disaster but no fault of Ms. Balgord.

Another treasure to this production is James Harms as the Man in the Chair. Harm’s character has no name but he is a modern day musical theatre addict who has a vast collection of long play records of his favorite musicals. His favorite musical is the 1928 musical comedy “The Drowsy Chaperone” (this is a fictitious musical) and once he plays the record the show takes off in leaps and bounds and the fun, singing and dancing begins and audiences should be in heaven for the over two hours it takes for the story to come to life on stage.

Most critics love and enjoy the theatre but that doesn’t mean they like every show even though we hear a voice shout out in the dark theatre before the lights go on “I Hate Theatre.”

Tyler Hanes plays Robert the handsome suitor of Janet played by Tari Kelly who would rather give up her career and get married. Problems set in as Feldzieg played by David Lively who is Janet’s producer sets out to sabotage the wedding by hiring Aldolpho played by Adam Pelty as the Latin lover to dissolve the wedding.

What happens is one riot as the story unfolds and we meet two gangsters who in the show have the disguised roles of pastry chefs who are the real life Aguilar Brothers. Other standouts are Paula Scrofano as Mrs. Tottendale whose rich estate is set in the show, Gene Weygandt as Underling the butler will have you in stitches. Laura E. Taylor has the role of Kitty who wants to be a big star. Another major talent is Melody Betts as Trix, the mysterious aviatrix.

Andy Lupp plays George who is Robert’s best man and their song and dance number “Cold Feet” is absolutely a show stopper and you don’t want either one to stop dancing. They set the stage on fire with their performances.

The show gives audiences the opportunity to see the talented actor, singer and dancer that Andy Lupp is.

Other standout numbers are “As We Stumble Along,” “Accidents Waiting to Happen,” “I Do, I Do In the Sky” and “Love is Always Lovely” to name a few of the songs.

Adam Pelty’s father I’m sure was watching his son perform in heaven and beaming with joy at his performance.

We only hope Ms. Balgord will return in the near future to the Chicago stages as she is one classy woman.

This is Tyler Hanes’ third show at Marriott and he is talent with a capital “T.” I hope Chicago audiences will have the opportunity to see him back for another show in the near future.

“The Drowsy Chaperone” runs through June 27th. For performance dates, show times and reservations call 847-634-0200. Tickets range from $35 to $48. There is free parking and the venue is wheelchair accessible.

Selecting an Estate Planning Attorney – Wisely

Chester M. Przybylo

When you plan your estate, you are putting together your road map to your legacy. Your estate plan determines who will be entitled to your assets, how they can use them, and the protections which they and the assets you leave them may have from creditors, divorcing spouses, etc. The attorney whom you select to assist you in creating that plan is integral to its success. That is why you need to choose wisely.

When Bill and Mary were planning their estates, they went to an attorney who was a family friend, had a general practice and dabbled in many areas of the law. Their attorney, Frank, was very nice and even gave them a discount because of their friendship. Frank drafted Wills for them that appeared to work on the surface. Bill wanted one-half of his assets to go to Mary and one-half of his assets to go to his children from his first marriage. His Will seemed to do this. However, when Bill died, it did not work out that way. Bill had $750,000 in assets at his death. His one-half interest in the house he owned with Mary was worth $250,000. His one-half interest in the ranch he owned with his brother, Sam, was worth $300,000. Finally, his IRA was worth $200,000. Unfortunately, but unbeknownst to Bill and Mary, estate planning does not just entail writing down your wishes in a Will, like Frank did for them. It takes knowledge and experience to create an effective estate.

When Bill died, they discovered that the house was held in joint tenancy, so his $250,000 interest in the $500,000 house passed to Mary automatically at his death. It was not controlled by his Will at all. Likewise, the ranch was held in joint tenancy with Sam. Bill's $300,000 interest in the ranch automatically passed to Sam, even though the Will provided otherwise. Finally, the IRA had a beneficiary designation naming Bill's mother. After Bill's first marriage ended, he had changed the designation to his mother. He forgot to update the designation when he remarried. Frank, though meaning well, did not think to ask about the beneficiary designations because he did not focus in estate planning and did not have the experience to know better.

So, of his $750,000 in assets, Bill wanted one-half, or $375,000, to go to his kids from his first marriage and $375,000 to Mary. Instead, Mary only got $250,000 and his kids from his first marriage got nothing—even though that's not what his Will provided. An experienced attorney would have recommended that Bill change the house and ranch to tenancy-in-common property and would have made sure the beneficiary designation was updated. That way, Bill would have provided for his family as he had wanted.

Don't make the same mistake that Bill and Mary did. Go to a qualified estate planning attorney who focuses his or her practice in estate planning. Make sure they get continuing legal education to stay updated on the latest developments in the field of estate planning. For example, the American Academy of Estate Planning Attorneys requires its members to earn 36 hours of training in estate planning or elder law annually. Once you select a qualified estate planning attorney, have confidence that your legacy is in good hands.

Chester M. Przybylo has been elected to the Board of Governors of the prestigious American Academy of Estate Planning Attorneys and has been engaged in the practice of law for the last 40 years. For more information or to attend an upcoming seminar, call (773) 631-2525.

Isabella Reigns as New Queen of Baby Names - Takes Top Spot on Social Security's Most Popular Baby Names List

There's a new queen of baby names. Isabella took the crown from last year's winner, Emma, to claim the top girl baby name of 2009. Jacob continued his remarkable run by holding onto the top boy name for the 11th year in a row over a new number two for boys, Ethan. New to the top 10 this year for boys are Jayden and Noah, and for girls, Mia.

To see all the top baby names for 2009, go to Social Security's website www.socialsecurity.gov. Here are the top 10 boys and girls names for 2009:

|       |              |        |             |
|-------|--------------|--------|-------------|
| Boys: | 1) Jacob     | Girls: | 1) Isabella |
|       | 2) Ethan     |        | 2) Emma     |
|       | 3) Michael   |        | 3) Olivia   |
|       | 4) Alexander |        | 4) Sophia   |
|       | 5) William   |        | 5) Ava      |
|       | 6) Joshua    |        | 6) Emily    |
|       | 7) Daniel    |        | 7) Madison  |
|       | 8) Jayden    |        | 8) Abigail  |
|       | 9) Noah      |        | 9) Chloe    |
|       | 10) Anthony  |        | 10) Mia     |

Baby Jacob and Baby Isabella issued a joint statement thanking Americans for "their support and good taste." They also urged fans to "check out www.socialsecurity.gov to learn about a new 'twist' in the law that may help an older relative or neighbor get an average of almost $4,000 of extra help with Medicare prescription drug costs."

A favorite feature of Social Security's baby names website is the "Change in Name Popularity" page. This year's winner for the biggest jump is Maliyah, which undoubtedly is related to the popularity of the First Family. Malia (the spelling used by the First Daughter), also is one of the top 10 fastest risers among girls names. Isla, the name of popular actress Isla Fisher (and wife of Sacha Baron Cohen – aka Borat, which thankfully has yet to make the list) was the second fastest riser among girls. On the boy's side, Cullen had the biggest increase, likely attributable to the popular character Edward Cullen in the "Twilight" novels and movies. King came in as the number three top mover for boys, but more on Elvis later.

The girl's name Marelly, which interestingly had the third largest increase last year, had the biggest drop this year from number 334 to 851. Mylee had the second biggest drop; Miley (as in Cyrus) also dropped in popularity. In the wake of controversies surrounding Lindsay Lohan, Lindsay dropped from number 381 to 524. Brett, Jonas and Alvin are among the boy's names with the largest decreases. With Brett, Social Security wonders if Americans are ready to retire the name (sorry Vikings' fans, we mean Jets' fans, um Packers' fans). And despite the soaring popularity of singing trios – whether human brothers or the chipmunk variety – fewer people apparently are willing to name their sons Jonas or Alvin.

With 69 baby Baracks born in 2009, Barack continues to move up the list to number 1,993 from 2,424 in 2008, and 12,535 in 2007, but still lags well behind First Dog Bo at 782.

Many patterns of recent years continued. Religious names continue to be very popular, including the girl names Heaven at number 275 and Nevaeh (Heaven spelled backwards) at 34. Messiah was number 663 for boys. An extraordinary 3.7 percent of the Top 1000 boy names rhymed with the word "maiden" and names associated with cities, states, or countries were popular, particularly for girls.

And for all of you Elvis fans out there, here's the annual update from Social Security Commissioner Michael J. Astrue: Elvis slipped from number 713 in 2008 to 858 in 2009. Unconfirmed reports indicate he was "all shook up" by his 2009 rank, but pleased that Presley is number 268 for girls, and that King and Memphis landed at 462 and 605 for boys.

As the federal government's leading expert on baby names, Commissioner Astrue commented "I have no idea what any of this means, but nonetheless urge you to go to our website www.socialsecurity.gov to have a little fun with baby names and to see if you can help an older relative or friend qualify for $4,000 of extra help with Medicare prescription drug costs."

The Social Security website offers lists of baby names for each year since 1880. Social Security started compiling baby name lists in 1997.

Be sure to check out www.socialsecurity.gov on May 14 to see the most popular baby names for each state, as well as an exclusive video of Chubby Checker counting down the most popular names of the past decade.

That, together with world class art and architecture, a breathtaking garden and the longest communal picnic table in Chicago, make Millennium Park the perfect place to spend a summer lunch hour," said Lois Weisberg, Commissioner of the Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs.

Highlights of the noontime summer season in Millennium Park include Edible Audible Picnic, the lunchtime electronic music series featuring DJs and live bands on Monday afternoons. The Grant Park Music Festival, celebrating its 76th season this summer, continues its popular open rehearsals four days a week, making Millennium Park a lunchtime destination for Chicagoans and visitors alike. Rounding out the season are concerts in jazz, blues and world music, along with performances by Emerald City Theatre (see complete line-up below).

For more information about all of the noon events in Millennium Park, visit www.millenniumpark.org or call 312.742.1168. Millennium Park can also be found on Facebook.
