SEPTEMBER IS NATIONAL LITERACY MONTH

Mayor Lightfoot And Comcast Announce Largest Ever Expansion Of Internet Essentials In Chicago

Investment Will Double The Number Of Low-Income Households Eligible For Internet Essentials, Expand Digital Youth Learning Labs Throughout Chicago

Mayor Lori E. Lightfoot recently joined Comcast Corporation and Chicago Public Library (CPL) at the Austin Library Branch to announce the largest ever expansion of Internet Essentials in the City of Chicago. Comcast will significantly expand eligibility for its program, the nation's largest, most comprehensive, and most successful broadband adoption initiative, to all low-income households in Chicago. The expansion greatly expands the number of low-income households eligible for Internet Essentials, including households with people with disabilities and seniors.

Building on an existing partnership with Chicago Public Library, Comcast is also dedicating $250,000 to open eight new digital media labs for teens and offering additional digital skills education programming to seniors and other populations by the end of 2019. Both commitments by the City and Comcast are designed to help residents build digital skills and Internet literacy, and increase adoption of Internet services in the areas of the city with the greatest need.

To increase the number of Chicagoans able to access broadband, Comcast has introduced new eligibility guidelines, which will make the program available to all families who qualify for government public assistance programs, including low-income people with disabilities and seniors. Previously, only families that reside in public housing qualify for the national school lunch program, as well as Pell-grant eligible community college students and low-income veterans were eligible to participate.

To apply for the program, low-income applicants need to show they are participating in one of more than a dozen different government assistance programs. A full list can be found at www.internetessentials.com. To date, the program has connected more than 95,000 homes representing approximately 380,000 people in Chicago.

Chicago Citywide Literary Coalition Is Raising Their Voice for National Adult Education and Family Literacy Week

FACT: There are nearly 800,000 adult Chicagoans who don't possess professional skills, including reading and writing, beyond the basic level.

September 23rd is the kickoff of National Adult Education and Family Literacy Week! The week will focus on raising public awareness about the need for and value of adult education and family literacy. Its goal is to leverage resources that support access to basic education programs for the 36 million U.S. adults with low literacy skills. Advocates across the country use this opportunity to elevate adult education and family literacy nationwide with policymakers, the media, and the community.

To celebrate the awareness week, Chicago Citywide Literary Coalition (CCLC) will host a rally on September 26 from 11am to 1pm at the Thompson Center for Adult Education! There will be adult learner success stories available for interviews on the importance to keep funding going, and why educating adults is critical for Chicago.

Square Dance Calling Makes a Comeback in Chicago

Square dancing is enjoying a surge of interest from both dancers and callers in the greater Chicago area. Clubs in Glenview, Wilmette, Evanston and Arlington Heights, as well as Chicago's North Side, will be offering classes for beginners and intermediate dancers starting in September. But without callers to lead classes, this uniquely American dance form would be in danger of extinction.

Help New Callers! Learn To Square Dance!

Chicago North Shore residents can learn the basics of square dancing AND help new callers practice with beginners by serving as 'test dancers' at an upcoming workshop designed to teach new callers how to teach. The workshop will take place Saturday, Sept. 7, at The Book Market in Glenview. New dancers (i.e. people with zero square dance experience) are needed from 2 pm to 4:30 pm. There is space for up to 16 dancer attendees. No experience needed; no partner required. Email Janice Cha, janice@glenviewsquares.org, to sign up.

History of Peanut Days

This signature Kiwanis fundraising effort had its beginning at Wrigley Field. During a rain delay at a Cubs game, two Kiwanians hit on the idea of putting peanuts in the shell, like those at the ballpark, into paper bags and asking for donations to raise funds for their clubs. Eight clubs participated in the first Peanut Day in September 1951. With limited publicity and experience these eight clubs managed to raise more than $18,000 in one day! Since then over $73 million has been raised by Kiwanis clubs for their charitable projects using the Kiwanis Peanut Days fund raising program. Peanut Days has become the most successful coordinated fund raising program in Kiwanis history.

A recent addition to Kiwanis Peanut Days has been the donation of boxes of peanuts to U.S. troops overseas through Operations Support Our Troops - America. Please see below an example of our Naperville club's activities in supporting this cause.

Norwood Park Historical Society To Hear About "Birds In The Garden" On Sept. 25

Inviting birds into gardens can be a joyful way to connect to nature and help sustain bird populations. To learn more about this process, please attend the special photo-rich program titled, "Birds in the Garden: Tips for Creating & Enjoying a Bird Oasis," on Wed., Sept. 25, at 7:00 p.m., at the Norwood Park Historical Society, 5624 N. The speaker, Pam Karlson, will feature a Chicago bird garden and illustrate how to attract over 110 bird species to your property.

Karlson will discuss landscape enhancements, practices and plant selection with an emphasis on natives/navitars. She will also cover Chicagoland's importance on the migratory bird route, bird species diversity, habitat, diet/foraging, nesting, supplemental feeding, and citizen science.

The speaker, a Norwood Park resident, is a career artist, gardener, birder, and wildlife rehabilitation volunteer who has been rescuing migratory birds for 15 years. ### Music Theater Works Rings Many Bells with Musical Adaptation of Victor Hugo's 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame'

Reviewed by Jeff Fiedler

A recent Music Theater Works production adapting Disney's musical version of 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame' played well to the August 17 opening night audience at Northwestern's Cahn Auditorium. The musical production's professional premiere in the Chicago area included a well-rehearsed full orchestra, an incredibly functional set, sublimely featuring the great Cathedral of Notre Dame, and was full of strong performances by an energetic cast of more than 40 performers.

For those of you who have not read the book or viewed the 1996 Disney cartoon adaptation - perhaps Disney's darkest venture to this day - this epic story of love and acceptance set in medieval Paris revolves around a beautiful gypsy girl, Esmeralda, who is adored by three men: the Archdeacon Frollo, Captain Phoebus and the Archdeacon's adopted and deformed son Quasimodo, the bell-ringer of the cathedral. The remainder of the large cast have roles that range from beggars who inhabit the sewers of Paris, up through the King of France.

Appealing opening-night performances were turned in by Anna Marie Abbate as Esmeralda and Billy Dawson in the role of Quasimodo. Their voices filled the theater and their showmanship and authenticity of character lit up the audience several times throughout the evening. Strong supportive performances were also turned in by Kent Joseph as the tormented Archdeacon, Erik Dohner as the opportunistic Phoebus and Benjamin Sprunger, cast in a humorous and somewhat narrative role of Clopin, the leader of the Parisian sewer-dwellers.

While The Hunchback of Notre Dame revolves around the melodramatic romancing of the beautiful, yet doomed Esmeralda by three men - two (Frollo and Phoebus) whose motives are somewhat nefarious, and Quasimodo, who manages to save Esmeralda from the gallows and defends her to the end - there is a bigger arch to the storyline that reminds us of the circle of worldwide revolution that results from social strife, of man's free will and destiny, and the ongoing life story of love and loss.

The opening set in the entry of Notre Dame Cathedral, which remains for the entire production, is creatively used to portray the bell tower, the roof of the Cathedral, the sewers and streets of Paris, and plays a major role to convince us we're in 15th-Century France. The lighting enhanced the featured performers well throughout the production, and while there were a few small opening night glitches with a trap door, a hangman's noose and a crackle or two from some hot ensemble microphones, the overall production values were strong and the evening was captivating.

Music Theater Works season continues in October (4-13) with Lerner and Loewe's Greatest Hits and will close with Andrew Lloyd Weber's Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat in December (21-31).

Roadside History of Illinois

This is the thirty-second in a series of monthly short articles about places in Chicago, nearby suburbs and elsewhere in the state that can be visited by those who seek to learn more about local history. The articles are partial excerpts from the book, Roadside History of Illinois (Mountain Press, 2013), by Chicago author and Illinois native Stan Banash.

The Great Train Robbery

On the night of June 12, 1924, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Train #57 pulled out of Chicago's Union Station on its way to Milwaukee carrying about $3 million in cash from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, in addition to bonds and jewels. Unbeknownst to the crew, two members of a band of outlaws known as the Newton Gang had boarded the train disguised as crewmen. Their accomplice was Chicago postal inspector William J. Fahy, who provided inside information about the valuable shipment earlier and then gave the gang a final briefing the day of the robbery in front of the Art Institute of Chicago.

About an hour out of Chicago, the train was passing the remote rail crossing at Rondout when Jess and Willis Newton, dropped down from the coal tender into the engine cab, pulled out guns and forced the engineer to halt the train at Buckley Road (IL 137), about two miles north of Rondout. The railroad track at grade level today is beneath the Buckley Road bridge that crosses over I-94 and the tracks. Waiting up the track at Buckley Road were several more gang members, armed with pistols and sawed-off shotguns. After shooting through the windows and tossing smoke bombs and a canister of formaldehyde, the bandits, some wearing gas masks, forced the guards to open the door of the yellow mail car (third one in the 11-car train), drag the 63 valuable mail sacks (called skins) of money and securities across the tracks, and load them into the four 1924 Cadillac touring cars parked nearby. Amid the darkness and confusion, Brent Glasscock mistook his comrade Willie Newton for a guard and shot him several times. The gangsters put the wounded man into one of the cars before speeding off, marring a clean getaway. The whole operation took no more than 25 minutes.

All four cars headed to Grayslake and then Crystal Lake before splitting off with one of the cars abandoned in Crystal Lake. Part of the gang drove to Ottawa along the Illinois River, while the car carrying the wounded man eventually headed back to Chicago to hole up in a friend's apartment at 53 N. Washtenaw, while a doctor was being located. Initially, police thought Chicago gangsters were involved, but after various suspects and felons were rounded up and interrogated, police were tipped off about possibly finding a wounded man in the Washtenaw first floor apartment. They raided the place and apprehended the wounded Willie and two of his brothers, Willis and Joseph. Jess Newton and Glasscock evaded capture for a while, hiding much of the loot, but eventually all eight of the conspirators were caught and arrested. All were convicted in U.S. District Court for Northern Illinois in late 1924 with sentences ranging from three to 25 years. They were transported to Leavenworth Penitentiary, in Kansas, by train. Only Walter Maccomb was found not guilty. It was his apartment where the gang hid.

Most of the money was recovered, some of it from as far away as Tulsa, Oklahoma and other nearby states, but about $1 million was never located. Some people believe part of the loot remains buried in Ball glass canning jars, waiting to be discovered by accident at a future date.

Village of Lincolnwood Art Gallery

The latest Art Gallery display in Village Hall, "Mother and Child", features pieces from artist Luke McFadden. This display will be available for viewing during normal business hours, 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., Monday - Friday, from September 10 through October 31. An afterhours art reception will take place on September 17, 2019, from 5:00 - 7:00 p.m., where attendees can meet the artist, view the art installation and enjoy light refreshments.

About the Installation: Each piece in the Mother and Child series is a celebration of relational life in my home during my sons' little years. My intent is to depict the loveliness of my wife during her happy and chaotic first chapter of mothering, the boundless energy of our three boys, and the wonder of the mother-child connection. My aesthetic decisions are informed by the rapid pace of early parenthood. In keeping with this pace, large sections of each piece were initially rendered in a gesture-drawing style. Likewise, the various contours surrounding each abstracted figure were drawn to convey the movement and ever-changing nature of life with infants and toddlers. In celebrating my family with these marks, my aim is to remain present and reflective in a season when it is easy to prioritize the urgent and become distracted from what is important.

“Officer Rodriguez Says” Lock Your Windows And Doors On Your House, Car, Garage, All The Time, Every Time

An elderly person was recently contacted by individuals claiming to be friends of his grandson. The “friends” claimed the grandson was in trouble in Chicago and needed a significant amount of money to fix the situation. Luckily this gentleman was very sharp. He quickly contacted his grandson who related he was fine and not in trouble. So the elderly gentleman played along with the scam artists. He was instructed to send the money to a location in Chicago. The elderly gentleman contacted the Chicago Police Department who worked with delivering the money to the crooks. Two men were arrested. The elderly gentleman was not as weak-minded as the scammers thought.

Please check on your elderly neighbors, relatives and friends. Please remind them if strangers call asking for money to check with a friend, family member or police before doing so. Many different scams are pulled on seniors. If you suspect a Fraud or Scam report it to local police.

Assessor Fritz Kaegi Celebrates Signing Of Automatic Senior Citizen Property Tax Exemption Bill By Governor Pritzker

Cook County Assessor Fritz Kaegi praised Illinois Governor JB Pritzker on Monday for signing Illinois House Bill 833 into law.

The bill, championed by Cook County Assessor Fritz Kaegi and Illinois House Assistant Majority Leader Fred Crespo, amends the Illinois Property Tax Code so that a person who has been granted a Senior Citizen Homestead Exemption in Cook County will not need to reapply for the exemption every year, as is the case now. HB 833 passed Illinois's House and Senate in unanimous votes this past May.

“With the signing of this new law, I am pleased to see our state government speaking with one voice,” said Assessor Kaegi. “Through intergovernmental cooperation and technological modernization within our office, seniors in Cook County will no longer be burdened with the need to reaffirm their age each year.”

Seniors not currently receiving the exemption, and those who turned 65 in 2019, must apply for the senior exemption in 2020; their exemption will then automatically renew each year. Seniors exemptions currently in place will renew automatically.

State Rep. Crespo, the bill's chief sponsor in the House, pushed for the passage of this bill. In the Senate, the bill's chief co-sponsors were Sen. Laura Ellman and Sen. Bill Cunningham.

“While we work to deliver comprehensive solutions to middle-class families and seniors through our bipartisan Property Tax Relief Task Force, we must ensure that cost-saving exemptions are accessible to all qualifying families,” State Rep. Crespo said.

“I'm grateful to Representative Crespo for his continued advocacy on this issue,” said Assessor Kaegi. “With necessary safeguards in place to prevent fraud, our office plans a swift implementation of this bill for the hundreds of thousands of seniors who are eligible for it.”

“This new law will benefit seniors, especially those living on fixed income, by doing away with unnecessary bureaucracy and continuing to provide stable relief,” said State Rep. Crespo.

To allow for the automatic renewal of the Senior Homestead Exemption and prevent fraud in its application, the Cook County Assessor's Office is required to conduct an audit on every Senior Citizen Homestead Exemption at least once every three years.

“There are many operational changes our office can make to serve taxpayers better,” said Assessor Kaegi. “I will continue to work with lawmakers on legislative measures that deliver on our promise to reform the property tax system in Cook County.”

Pecan Tassies

This recipe is from my sister-in-law, Elisabeth. The “tassies” look like miniature pies and they taste simply heavenly!

Here’s the recipe:

For the dough you need one 8 oz. pkg of cream cheese, two sticks of butter and two cups of flour. Mix the ingredients as you would for a pie crust. Divide the dough into four equal parts. Roll out on a floured board to about 1/8” thickness and cut out 2” or 2-1/2” diameter rounds.

Filling: 1-1/2 cups brown sugar, 1-1/2 cups chopped pecans or walnuts, 2 tsp. vanilla, 2 eggs, 2 tbsp. melted butter and a dash of salt.

Ease the circles of dough into a cup, using a couple of small-size cupcake pans, which you have sprayed with no-stick spray. Spoon one teaspoon of the filling into each cup. Bake in a pre-heated oven at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Carefully remove the tassies from the pan and place on a cookie rack to cool completely before storing. Yummy, yummy for the tummy!
