Evanston Street Cleaning Continues

In March, Evanston residents received a brochure in the mail titled "At Your Disposal," which included street cleaning schedules. For streets with parking on both sides, the City is divided into four districts; with one side of street cleaned on even or odd numbered weekdays.

Additionally, there are two sweeping schedules for streets with one-sided parking. It is important to keep the list of sweeping dates because tickets will be issued ONLY on those dates. It is okay to park on the dates NOT LISTED on the schedule. If you did not receive the brochure or did not keep it, the schedules are posted on the City's Web site: www.cityofevanston.org/departments/publicworks/streets.

Street cleaning will continue through November 30, 2009. Do not park between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on street cleaning days.

PRESBYTERIAN HOMES BRINGS AFFORDABLE HOUSING FOR OLDER ADULTS TO WEST ROGERS PARK

Presbyterian Homes, a nonsectarian provider of retirement living in Evanston, IL, will offer 33 units of affordable housing for older adults in a newly renovated, four-story brick apartment building at 1950 W. Devon Ave (Devon & Ridge). The West Rogers Park building is the latest addition to the organization's Neighborhood Homes program. Occupancy is scheduled for July 2009.

Residents must be 65 years old with income not to exceed $42,200 a year for a single individual or $48,250 for two persons (in 2008). Rents are determined on a sliding scale based on 28 percent of adjusted income. Older adults who are interested in residency should contact Donna Musgrave, director of the Neighborhood Homes, at 773-477-4160, regarding applications.

The building offers studio, one and two-bedroom units of up to 885 sq. ft. Other features include reserved parking, sprinklers, smoke detectors and telephone security intercom systems. The units are air-conditioned, have baseboard hot-water heat and are pre-wired for cable television. Each unit has a new full-size kitchen and bath and in-unit laundry hook-ups.

Residents must be independent and able to do their own shopping, cooking and cleaning. The Neighborhood Homes director and a social worker will assist residents in locating social service agencies when needed.

The Neighborhood Homes program has two other apartment buildings in Chicago's Lakeview neighborhood. The program helps older adults with limited financial means to remain in their neighborhoods where gentrification has reduced the availability of affordable housing. The Geneva Foundation, the charitable arm of Presbyterian Homes, funds the Neighborhood Homes. Donations to the foundation provided the means to purchase and renovate the building.

Resident Meta Toerber of the Neighborhood Homes' Lake View Place at 416 W. Barry in Chicago says, "Lake View Place is a gift from heaven. We have weekly computer classes, low-impact exercise classes, and bus service to the grocery store. There is a 24-hour maintenance man and we have a wonderful sense of community, but you still have your privacy. For me, the personal interest Presbyterian Homes takes in you is worth a billion dollars."

Ned Russells, another Lake View Place resident added, "Presbyterian Homes has made my life totally different. I've been here 14 years, and they have enabled me to live with dignity in a building that is safe and well-maintained and in the community where I have lived a great many years."

About Presbyterian Homes

Founded in 1904, Presbyterian Homes is a not-for-profit, non-sectarian organization with a national reputation for creating extraordinary retirement communities. Presbyterian Homes serves older adults through its residential and healthcare programs on campuses in Evanston, Lake Forest, Arlington Heights and Chicago. The organization is accredited by the CARF/CCAC, the nation's only accrediting body for retirement communities.

Presbyterian Homes' mission also provides a significant charitable component. Last year, its Geneva Foundation spent more than $7 million in benevolent programs, serving more than 300 older adults with limited financial means. Among these programs is the Neighborhood Homes Without Walls program in Lake County, providing subsidized living or rental assistance to individuals with limited financial resources.

Blending beauty and humor with tragedy and loss, this is a documentary which begins with an elderly homeless artist in New York City. Twenty-five veterans from Edward J. Hines Veterans Hospital, Hines, Ill., will be guests of the theater and will also have lunch at a nearby Skokie restaurant.

Cook County Commissioner Larry Suffredin (D-Evanston) of the 13th District will present Silver Star Banners to six other veterans in attendance who were wounded while serving in the U.S. Armed Forces during hostilities in Korea, Vietnam and Iraq.

Silver Star Banners are supplied by the Silver Star Families of America, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization committed to supporting wounded veterans of wars past and present, and to honoring their service.

The event is being coordinated by Richard Morbidoni, superintendent of veterans affairs for Cook County, and lunch for the honored veterans is being paid for by the Veterans Assistance Commission of Cook County.

According to Al Curtis, associate director of the Skokie Theatre, this tribute is the first in a series of charitable events to honor and thank certain individuals for community service. The Skokie Theatre Music Foundation, a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting the arts and enriching the community's culture, also is interested in showing appreciation for those who helped make the community and the nation great.

The Foundation will be accepting donations to sponsor similar events in upcoming weeks to honor other deserving groups, Curtis said.

St. Peter Catholic School News

St. Peter had a great science fair recently. Due to a generous contribution by one of our parishioners in support of this effort, this activity is now called the Avis and Hugh J. McDonald Science Fair. St. Peter greatly appreciates the donation and the fine work by Miss Nora, Miss Struhar, and Mrs. Zale for guiding our students to achieve success in this endeavor.

The St. Peter girls' varsity volleyball team took first place in Division A and the boys' varsity volleyball team took first place for the year and in the Division AA playoffs. Congratulations to our teams and special thanks to Mr. Miniscalco, Jonathan Hester, and Peter Haben for their fine coaching.

Two successful sports banquets were recently held to recognize all of our student-athletes for their efforts during this current school year. An enormous round of applause is due Mr. Miniscalco, all our coaches, the Booster club, and the families of our students. What a great example of "Sound Mind in Sound Body."

Remembering Memorial Day

By Sophia Venetos

Ten-year-old Jenna George has no idea why Americans celebrate Memorial Day. She admits she does not know what the holiday signifies and has never learned its meaning in school. Her sister Sophia, 8, is just as clueless about this quintessential American holiday. The sisters could not even fathom a guess as to the holiday's meaning. But both know they have the day off of school, something they made sure not to complain about.

Whether this is a growing trend, or just the case of these two children who attend school in Skokie, is unclear. But what is apparent, is that traditional observance of Memorial Day continues to falter year after year, and various long-standing customs are no longer being practiced.

Perhaps more disturbing is that the meaning of Memorial Day is becoming lost among younger generations. Memorial Day is quickly becoming just another day off of work and a marker for the beginning of summer.

But as Americans continue to fight overseas, defending our freedom and sacrificing their lives to protect it, Memorial Day is just as relevant and important now as ever.

So, this Memorial Day take some time to learn the true meaning behind the holiday, and share it with your family.

Even if you don't commemorate the day in the traditional sense, bear in mind that Memorial Day is a day of remembrance for those who have died in our nation's service.

Originally called Decoration Day, Memorial Day was officially proclaimed as such on May 5, 1868 by General John Logan, the national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. The holiday was first observed on May 30, 1868, when flowers were placed on the graves of Civil War soldiers at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia.

However, the South did not observe Decoration Day, preferring to honor their dead on separate days until after World War I. In 1882, the holiday's name was changed to Memorial Day, and soldiers who had died in other wars were also honored.

In 1966, under the leadership of President Lyndon Johnson, the federal government declared Waterloo, N.Y. to be the official birthplace of Memorial Day. Waterloo was chosen because it had first celebrated the holiday in 1866, and residents made the day an annual, community-wide event during which businesses closed and residents decorated the graves of soldiers with flags and flowers. However, it is difficult to prove conclusively the origins of the federal holiday.

Memorial Day is now celebrated in almost every state on the last Monday in May, and was declared as such in 1971, to ensure a three-day weekend.

Memorial Day can still be celebrated at Arlington National Cemetery, in which a ceremony occurs and a small American flag is placed on each grave. It is also customary for the president or vice-president to give a speech honoring the contributions of the dead and lay a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

In 2000, the National Moment of Remembrance" resolution was passed to help re-inform and remind Americans of the true meaning of Memorial Day. The resolution asks that at 3 p.m. local time, for all Americans "To voluntarily and informally observe in their own way a Moment of remembrance and respect, pausing from whatever they are doing for a moment of silence or listening to "Taps."

Although moments of silence are customary on Memorial Day, conversely, parades have also remained as a common occurrence to celebrate the holiday. Below you will find several Chicago area-parades that you and your family can attend to honor Memorial Day.

Saturday, May 23, 2009

Chicago Memorial Day Parade begins at noon. It starts at State St. from Lake St. to Van Buren.

SHERIFF REMINDS RESIDENTS TO BE CAUTIOUS WHEN VISITING CEMETERIES

As the warmer weather and Mothers' Day approaches, Cook County Sheriff Thomas J. Dart reminds residents to be alert when visiting the grave site of a loved one.

In the past few weeks, Sheriff's Police have investigated reports of thefts from vehicles at a local cemetery. These crimes occurred while the victims were away from their vehicles paying their respects.

"At no time has violence or the threat of violence been used in any of the reported incidents," Dart said. "Anyone visiting a cemetery needs to take a few common sense precautions to avoid being the victim of a theft."

Dart recommends that cemetery visitors follow these guidelines:

Lock all car doors and do not leave any valuables in plain view inside your vehicle

Lock purses, bags and any other valuables in the trunk while visiting a grave site

Do not make yourself a target by carrying your purse or bag to the grave site

If possible, avoid visiting the cemetery alone

Note your surroundings before exiting your vehicle. Report any suspicious vehicles or activity to the cemetery attendant or police

For further information, contact the Cook County Sheriff's Police Department at (708) 865-4700.

"Art"

Steppenwolf Theatre Company Upstairs Theatre
1650 N. Halsted
Chicago, Illinois

Reviewed by Richard Allen Eisenhardt

This year "Art" won the Tony Award for Best Play and "The Lion King" won for best musical at the Radio City Music Hall. I was fortunate to be in attendance.

While the producers never sent a touring company to Chicago, the show had a long run at the Royal George Theatre. First with Michael Gross from "Family Ties" heading the cast and later replacing him was Kevin Dobson from the television show "Kojak."

The show deals with three middle age Frenchmen: Serge played by John Procaccino, Marc who is played by Francis Guinan and Yvon played by K. Todd Freeman. Serge is divorced, Marc is married, and Yvon is scheduled to be married.

"Art" is the work of Yasmina Reza and the show is translated by Christopher Hampton.

The show's director Rick Snyder is also an actor who has found a strong cast for the show. Later in the run Guinan will take over the role of Serge and Ian Barford and Joe Dempsey will handle the other roles.

It's a show you'll either like or hate and it definitely is a play for men especially if you're a feminist. The show has its humor but it does have a darker edge. There is tension between the three men and you'll find humor in their bitterness and confrontation.

Serge purchases a virtually all-white abstract modern painting for a costly amount of money. Marc has a negative reaction to the art work and this threatens their 15 year friendship. We see Yvon wants no part of the conflict as he is having his own personal problems with his upcoming marriage as his mother and the bride's family are at odds with each other.

This play deals with friendship, loyalty, betrayal, culture and what is and what isn't taste.

"Art" runs 90 minutes with three strong performances. Art runs through June 7. For performance dates, show times and reservations call 312-335-1650. Ticket prices are $20 to $70.

"The History Boys"

Timeline Theatre Company
615 W. Wellington Ave.
Chicago, Illinois

Reviewed by Richard Allen Eisenhardt

The Timeline Theatre Company is a small equity theatre that is housed on Wellington Ave. next to a Protestant Church.

P.J. Powers, the theatre's artistic director really scored a major coup in obtaining the rights to Alan Bennett's "The History Boys."

The show has received a total of 30 major awards that include the Tony and Oliver awards for the best new play. The show first opened in London in 2004 and finally ended up in New York in 2006. It was also made into a feature movie. The show is closing out Timeline's 2008-2009 season under the outstanding direction of Nick Bowling.

The play features a cast of 12 and runs three hours. Many British plays run three hours and Rock 'N' Roll at Goodman also has that time going for it.

Donald Bearly has the role of Hector the English Teacher who regularly swats his students in the classroom and fiddles around with the more attractive of his students after school.

The play deals with history and how it should be taught. You'll hear quotations from Auden, Larkin, Hardy and Shakespeare and in one scene in the classroom it is conducted entirely in French.

The adults are Donald Bearly, Terry Hamilton as the school headmaster, the newly hired Coach Irwin is being played by Andrew Carter and Ann Wakefield is Mrs. Lintott, the only female teacher in school. The boys are Joel Gross as Dakin, Rob Fenton as Lockwood, Will Allan as Scripps, Behazad Dabu as Akthar, Govind Kumar as Crowther, Brad Bukauskas as Timms, Michael Peters as Rudge and Alex Weisman as Posner

The show is set in 1980 in the northern part of England and you'll find that while it offers humor it is a provocative show. The who offers music and the musical director is Doug Peck. One student comes from a family of a Holocaust child and who has a love for Dakin, another is a playwright. Bennett the playwright who is 71 years young would be proud of this production of his masterpiece.

"The History Boys" runs through Jun 21 and could possibly get an extension. For performance dates, show times and reservations call 773-281-8463. Ticket prices are $25 and $35.

The Perfection of Part-Time

By Tammy Cook

Words like "downturn", "recession" and "struggling economy" have been center stage for the last several months, causing Chicago businesses and companies across the country to act more like deer in the headlights than the innovators and entrepreneurs that they truly are.

Historically speaking, recessions only last a maximum of 18 months. Whip out your calculator and do the math; the economic sun should begin to shine over Lake Michigan again this summer.

But very few businesses are prepared for the imminent upswing, after having experienced months of hiring freezes and layoffs. When the time comes, many companies are going to find themselves understaffed and ill-equipped to move forward into the new burgeoning economy.

So what can businesses do now to gear up their production and services while still keeping their expenditures in check?

10 til 2 is the cutting edge staffing company that specializes in providing businesses, from small start-ups to well-established industries, with part-time, college-educated career people. Our clients get topnotch talent, maintain control over human resources expenses and merely pay for the hours they need covered. No costly benefits. No uncommitted temps. Just highly skilled professionals ready to hit the ground running.

The 10 til 2 "part-time employment model" is an easily accessible HR solution for companies that refuse to sit passively awaiting better times. Not surprisingly, it is also a solid business tool in more prosperous economies. The reason is simple. 10 til 2 and its proprietary database of educated professionals allow companies access to top job candidates poised to move their businesses forward while eliminating the need for dollar-heavy employee benefits and out-of-control salaries.

If you would like to learn more about the perfection of part-time and how 10 til 2 can help your business through to the sunny side of the economy, visit www.tentiltwo.com or contact me at tcCook@tentiltwo.com

An exciting new plant has been introduced which is unlike any you've ever seen or grown. The name of this new unique plant is Diamond Frost, and it is a member of the Euphorbia family. This plant is an annual which will survive as long as temperatures stay above 30 degrees F.

Diamond Frost boasts nonstop clouds of airy white blooms. This plant is very easy to grow due to its exceptional heat and drought tolerance. It simply never goes out of bloom. Diamond Frost is versatile, as it can grow anywhere from a full sun to a part shade location. The plant should be watered when the soil is dry and periodically fertilized with any well balanced fertilizer.

The uses for Diamond Frost are as abundant as its blooms. The plant can be grown in planters, hanging baskets, or the ground. In all uses, it can be planted alone for a dramatic, elegant display of white flowers, or combined with other plants and used as an accent plant. The tiny white blooms will brighten up any mixed planting. Diamond Frost has a mounding upright habit, and will grow into a robust 12" wide by 16" tall plant.

Everyone should try at least one Diamond Frost plant in their plantings this year. Whether you are an expert or a casual gardener, you will be pleased with the results. It is likely that Diamond Frost will become a staple of your plantings, and you will be growing this plant for many seasons to come.

Fawn Facts

Those of us fortunate to live near our region's last urban forests may happen upon white-tailed deer. Most fawns are born between the middle of May and the end of June. Here are a few "fawn facts" to help you get to know them even better.

The gestation period for white-tailed deer is approximately seven months. Does usually give birth to one to three fawns at a time.

Fawns can stand just 20 minutes after birth, can walk haltingly in an hour, and can outrun a human in just five days!

A doe may nurse her fawn three to four times a day. Deer milk is very rich, with a fat content of around 12% (compared to 4% in whole milk from cows we humans drink).

For safety, a doe will hide her fawns separately from one another. Mother deer may venture as far as a half-mile away (still within hearing distance) of her offspring. If you find a fawn on its own, do not assume it is abandoned. Often, mother is nearby keeping tabs on her young.

The white spots on a fawn's fur helps camouflage it from predators. They lose their spots at around nine months of age.

Yearlings are fawns that are a year old; at that point, they may mate and have fawns of their own.

Urban Wildlife Coalition is a community-based organization founded to help preserve our treasured urban wildlife. You're Invited to Our Open House

By Bosley

As you know, moving, at best, is difficult. I'm just trying to stay out of my human's way.

Now that we are moved into our new digs at 6460 N. Milwaukee Avenue on Chicago's Northwest Side, we'll all settle down to business and I'll be back on the job for the next issue of the newspapers.

Canine Corral is really a great place to work and with the addition of our new boarding area, it should be even more fun for me.

Stop by our Open House on Sunday, May 31st from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Bring your animal companions with you so that we can all meet, face-to-face and paw-to-paw!

See you then, Bosley

Recognizing Illness in Pet Birds

Peter S. Sakas DVM, MS

Watery droppings should be carefully evaluated to determine if they are due to gastrointestinal disturbance or increased urine production (polyuria). A somewhat formed fecal portion with an extremely watery urine portion or excessive urate portion may indicate a kidney problem or metabolic problem such as diabetes.

A more liquid consistency in the fecal portion of the droppings is suggestive of an intestinal tract infection. Occasionally, birds with an intestinal disturbance may have a grayish coating on the fecal portion due to excessive mucous. When a bird has pancreatic disease it has characteristic "popcorn" droppings which are bulky and off white to gray in color. Undigested seed or grit in the droppings are abnormal and could indicate a gizzard malfunction.

Blood in the fecal portion of the droppings is usually from the cloaca or oviduct. Severe inflammation in the cloaca, ulcerations or tumors may be responsible. Blood may also be seen in female birds encountering difficulty passing eggs. In Amazon parrots and macaws, blood in the droppings could be due to cloacal papillomas, which are of viral origin. Other signs of this condition include straining to defecate and the presence of granulation tissue (appears almost like a strawberry) around the vent and in the cloaca.

The urate portion (urine crystals) should be off white in color. If the urates are yellow or neon green it may serve to indicate hepatitis. The neon green urates may be suggestive of psittacosis. Blood in the urine or urates (to be distinguished from blood in the fecal portion) are indicative of a kidney disturbance or toxicoses, particularly heavy metal poisoning such as lead.

Unusual Growths/Enlargements

Birds can develop abscesses, feather cysts and tumors, so any unusual swellings should be properly evaluated. Fat deposits may develop on the chest and/or abdomen and should be considered abnormal. Other abdominal enlargements could indicate the presence of a tumor or an egg. Many times these growths are not detected until they are quite large. Early detection may be accomplished by noting irregular displacement of the feathers. Keep a close watch on your bird as the earlier these problems are treated the greater the success rate.

Conclusion

Develop a sense for what is normal with your bird, deviations from the norm could indicate disease. The more you handle and interact with your bird the greater will be your understanding of the bird as well as your ability to detect potential problems. If you observe any of these signs or have questions about the condition of your bird, do not hesitate to notify your veterinarian for aid. A sick bird that is treated promptly and properly has a much better chance of recovery. Yearly physical examinations including blood testing and fecal analysis are strongly recommended for all birds. New birds should be examined shortly after purchase so that their state of health can be properly evaluated. Early detection is the key.
